Residents of Communities near Princeton Fear Development Plans Afoot in Township

Flowing brooks and flowing traffic ignore such things as municipal boundary lines.

It's understandable, therefore, when residents of Rocky Hill and other parts of Montgomery Township become very anxious about what gets built in Princeton, especially when building plans call for structures in the northern part of Princeton Township.

On the other side of the coin--or, to be more exact, on the other side of the municipal line--Princeton is entitled to uneasiness when a developer proposes some 400 houses on River Road in Montgomery Township, just over the line from Herrontown Woods and Princeton's sewer establishment.

Most recently, Montgomery Township, generally, and Rocky Hill residents, specifically, have been concerned about Carnegie Development's proposal to build 108 townhouses on land between Mt. Lucas and Route 206. The parcel has frontage on Mt. Lucas on the west, and the stretch of Herrontown between Mt. Lucas and Route 206 on the north. It's roughly across Herrontown from Princeton House, and only a few minutes' walk to the houses in Rocky Hill that lie along Princeton Avenue and Hickory Court.

One indignant Rocky Hill resident has threatened suit against Princeton Township if there is heavy storm damage as a result of developing this property. "Can you afford to be sued?" the letter-writer demanded.

"Ecologically, (the development) will be a disaster," another resident declared flatly. "It would destroy one of the more attractive and rural wooded areas, add to surface runoff, increase traffic, reduce the value of homes and affect our well-water."

"Drainage is our prime concern," says Mrs. W. Ronald Roach, who lives on Rocky Hill's Hickory Court, in very close juxtaposition to Van Horn Brook. Right now, her yard isn't flooded, but she recalls the summer of 1971, and the springs of 1972, 1974 and 1975 when the fire department had to pump out a neighbor's house.

"That house wasn't on the flood plain when it was built, but it is now," she says.

Van Horn, a north-flowing brook with so many small tributaries it's hard to tell which is Van Horn itself and which is just a cousin, eventually ends in the Millstone.

It starts--one branch of it--roughly at the top of the Mt. Lucas ridge above the site of the Yedlin public housing project. It wends its way north and crosses under Mt. Lucas near Princeton House. A second branch flows through the former Lahiere property on Poor Farm, now the location of Commodities Cor-

School Board Plans to Prepare Priority List Of Expenditures for Consideration by Public

"Our budget problem," as school board president Dietrich Meyerhofer referred to it at last Thursday night's board meeting, continues to occupy board, school administration and, quite probably, municipal officials. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley acknowledged Tuesday that some quiet communication -- "but not official" -- is taking place between board members and municipal officials, and he added, "I'd be delighted to sit and talk with the board."

The mayor pointed out that Princeton has a month to resolve "our budget problem" before May 10, when the tax rate must be set. He also repeated comments made at one of the many school budget meetings about the way Princeton views the quality of its education (see below).

Last Thursday, the board made three "planning decisions" related to the budget:

- It decided, unanimously, to renew teaching contracts based on the original budget's calculation that the system will lose 16.9 teachers by normal attrition. In effect, this wipes out the earlier across-the-board 2 1/2 percent cut as it applied to teaching staff. (Board member J.B. Smith abstained because he had been absent during discussions.)

- It decided, unanimously, to keep the present administrative structure, depending on what comments the state's Commissioner of Education might make if he gets the board's appeal from municipal budget-cutting, and depending on what the board itself might decide to do. This means the position of Personnel Administrator, which Wesley Johnson is about to leave, will be filled. Municipal officials wanted it eliminated.

- It asked the superintendent, unanimously, to make a list of expenditures, in order of priority. This list, to be prepared by April 20, will be presented to the public for discussion.

At Thursday's meeting, Superintendent Philip E. McPherson had a long, long list of things that might be cut. They added up to about half a million dollars -- $200,000 so the board could meet the $196,000 in pension fund payments now required from local school districts by the state, and $316,000 imposed by Borough Council and Township Committee. They were not discussed, Thursday, in order of priority.

The meeting began in an almost cheerful vein: Dr. McPherson said the pension requirement might not be imposed after all, and he suggested Princeton might even hold off paying it until July, 1977. Business administrator Ronald Novak reminded the board Princeton

Johnson to Leave

L. Wesley Johnson, personnel administrator for the Princeton school district, will become director of personnel for the Yuba City, California, district. If Princeton's board will waive the 60-day notice requirement, Dr. Johnson said this week, he plans to leave in mid-May.

Dr. Johnson is now in his 10th year in the Princeton schools. For five years, he was principal of John Witherspoon when it was an elementary school. He was associate superintendent for two years and has been personnel director for the past three.

Yuba City's district is about twice the size of Princeton's, with 13 schools, a student body of 7,500 with 375 certified staff and 250 supporting personnel.

"I have mixed feelings about leaving," he said, "but my home has always been on the west coast, and I'm very pleased to be going back."

would get $800,000 if "thorough-and-efficient" is fully funded by the state.

He also told the board that about half the school districts in New Jersey simply hadn't paid any attention in their budgets to the pension fund requirement.

The school district, Dr. McPherson said could save $24,000 a year by eliminating the subsidy for the cafeteria. This could mean a hike in school lunch prices and possible decrease in quality, and would cut into the Cafeteria's fund reserve. He suggested a $41,500 cut in overhead costs, and gave as an example a $17,500 saving in telephone bills if the schools converted to the system used last summer. This would mean cutting out the switchboard, but not eliminating the operator, who would have other work to do, he said.

"Less service and more inconvenience," he commented.

School instruction accounts could be cut by $63,000, completely eliminating purchase of new equipment -- typewriters, machines for the high school's business education department, desks -- and cutting back on "consumable items" like books.

The superintendent also suggested tighter billing for community groups using the schools -- the Princeton Youth Center, the Adult School, the Recreation Department.

Cutting from once a month to once every three months the printouts used for budget control purposes could save $2,500, he said. Deferring repairs to plant and equipment might save another $30,000, but he reminded the board that some things in this category can't be touched because of contracts with electricians, and so on.

If the high school isn't given its summer "spring cleaning," the board could save $13,000. If custodians who retire or quit aren't replaced, another $31,000 is saved, he estimated.

"We'd minimize the cleaning rather than increase the work-load," he said.

Graduation costs about $8,500 -- rental of gowns for $1,500, rental of Jadwin gymnasium for $200, printing and diplomas for the rest. If travel by board and staff -- "mostly this is staff," Dr. McPherson said -- is deferred, the saving would be $4,100.

Deferring purchase of teaching materials by 30 percent could save $10,000, Dr. McPherson said, but board member Winthrop Pike protested this as "potentially disruptive" to the system.

Cutting back on the number of athletic contests could save $7,600 but staff member Norman van Arsdalen protested this would have a "deadly effect".

"Our opponents would have four or five games under their belt before we even get on the floor," he protested.

Bleakly, Dr. McPherson suggested trying to sell the Stony Brook building for $50,000. The buyer who was willing to pay $200,000 to buy the building for office use has been turned down by the Township Zoning Board. He has appealed.

"Alternatives" at the end of the superintendent's list included such items as elimination of spring sports for 1977 and in fact, wiping out intramurals, jayvee and freshmen sports; freezing jobs that become vacant, deferring sabbaticals to the second semester next year, deferring salary increases for teachers until the appeal is settled, putting off non-athletic activities, eliminating the administrative jobs as recommended by Borough and Township but not until after the appeal.

And reducing the heat in all buildings to 65 degrees.

Mayor Cawley, who has been through many of these items, told his press conference he found "terribly persuasive" the statistics on Princeton's position in New Jersey education that were presented at a budget work-session.

They showed Princeton as one of the two top districts in the state in per-pupil expenditures.

"I've had no beefs as a parent myself," the mayor said, "but I hear people say they don't think they're getting the kind of quality education those dollar figures would indicate."

"These state data show us in a 95-percentile or better position, but people tell me they're sending their kids to private school -- and these aren't wealthy, western-section people. It just doesn't give you the feeling our district is a shining light."

ANOTHER FRUSTRATING DAY ON THE COURTS WITH MRS. MOUSE. Time and again it looked like a piece of cheese for me. I'd have her 40 love then I'd have to wait until she powdered her pretty nose, straightened her new visor, adjusted the bows on her size 14 sneakers. When she was finally ready I'd make my big serve, and rush the net. She'd calmly hit one of those overhand smashes and leave me hanging.

Oh well, as long as I take her out to lunch she never tells anyone about it.

Stop into the shop and see some of our cute imported Easter novelties. I've got to win somewhere.

Development Plans

poration. That firm's expansion plans have also been watched closely in Rocky Hill.

Another branch goes north, down the west side of Route 206 approximately to Mary Watts' store. There is a Van Horn parallel to Princeton Avenue in Rocky Hill, behind the houses there, and a confluence of tributaries in a nice little low place—always awash if anyplace is awash—where Mt. Lucas meets Cherry Valley-Rocky Hill Road.

"We'd like to see the Mt. Lucas area treated as a whole," Mrs. Roach continues, "with a wider perspective than piecemeal consideration of one development at a time."

She and her neighbors have counted five retention basins in the area, for example, including the one Commodities is providing in its expansion plans, and she questions whether this is the best way to handle drainage and flooding problems common to the whole region.

"Eighty percent of those basins don't work," one Rocky Hill resident wrote to the Princeton Township Zoning Board, as a protest to the Carnegie project.

Sewer Capacity Limited. Residents also point to the limited capacity of the Seminary. "I'm shocked to Montgomery-Rocky Hill—learn that it may be first-

Princeton Township sewer, and this problem almost caused an explosion at last Wednesday night's meeting of the Princeton Township Zoning Board. The board was holding its second session on Carnegie's plans (and will hold a third, at the board's next regular meeting, April 28).

Princeton Township has been allotted one-third, or 100,000 gallons per day, of the 300,000-gallon capacity sewer plant. Only 53,406 gallons are now being used by Princeton Township buildings in that part of the municipality. This leaves 46,000 left of Princeton's share, and it's estimated that Carnegie would take 32,000.

"This is mind-boggling!" exclaimed Zoning Board member Lucy MacKenzie, after Princeton Township engineer Joseph Hodak said there was no way to reserve sewer space. You make formal application for sewer space when you apply for a building permit, he said.

One of the developers of upper Mt. Lucas Road is Princeton Theological Seminary, with six houses already built on 34 approved lots, and a leisurely time-table stretching out into the years.

"We were given to understand sewerage would be available," protested William E. Lawder, treasurer of the Seminary. "I'm shocked to learn that it may be first-come-first-served. We spent $100,000 to put in sewer lines as a condition of development. We were never told it might not be available."

Priority Asked. Other property-owners also expressed alarm that they would be left high and dry.

Bruce Robertson, 466 Mt. Lucas, told the Zoning Board he has five lots and is currently paying sewer assessments although he is not tied in to the three-municipality sewer.

"People like me who are now paying assessments are being foreclosed," he said. "Instead of giving variances to people like Carnegie, you should give sewer priority to people who don't need variances."

Waiting in line for a piece of Montgomery's sewer space is Carl Geiger, who has laid before the Montgomery Township Planning Board his proposal for 493 apartments and townhouses on River Road, just over the Princeton line from Herrontown Woods and—ironically—Princeton's sewer installation and the new treatment plant now under construction for use by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, of which Montgomery is not a member.

Nelson Thompson, a member of the Montgomery Planning Board, mentioned Mr. Geiger's plans at Wednesday's Princeton Township Zoning Board meeting. However, he said later that the project is apparently dead, or at least very, very moribund. It was first discussed with Montgomery a full year ago. The state's 92-A Princeton by-pass, a project which seems to be equally dead, runs straight through Mr. Geiger's townhouses and may have brought a stall to his plans.

More Building Plans. "Neil Gold is counting on Princeton Township's sewer capacity in Montgomery, too," pointed out William Miller, attorney for Princeton's Planning Board. Mr. Gold wants to build houses on Dogwood Hill, just south of Carnegie on Mt. Lucas Road.

Mr. Hodak explained to the board that, so far there has been no need of keeping track of how many gallons of its allotment Princeton Township has used up. Use by single-family homes is "infinitesimal," Mr. Hodak said, on the order of 100 gallons per person, per day, in "contribution" to the sewer plant.

In a letter to Princeton Township Committee, Seminary president James McCord asks whether it is indeed "first-come-first-served" on the sewer line. If it is, he suggests, and the Montgomery-Rocky Hill-Princeton plant is full when the Seminary needs it, it's up to Princeton to provide.

This could mean expanding the present 300,000-gallon sewer plant. Robert Dix, attorney for Carnegie, said that raising the capacity to 600,000 had once been under consideration. He also pointed out that when the plant was built, Carnegie's property was entirely in the Service-2 zone of Princeton Township. That zoning was later changed. Commercial and service zones don't use sewers as heavily as homes.

At the moment, what Montgomery and Rocky Hill chiefly want is time.

"No one is saying 'don't build' because we know there will be development upstream from us in Princeton," Mrs. Roach says, "but instead of granting variances now, wait until your housing Master Plan has been completed, and don't allow high-density projects with a lot of pavement, but maybe cluster housing, planned to minimize run-off."

So it looks as though neighbors will be talking to one another increasingly as time goes by, crossing more and more the invisible watershed that separates Princeton from the people in the yard next door.

SUMMONS IS RESULT

Of Passing Accident. David E. Schuler, 19, of Skillman, was ticketed for careless driving after he struck the rear of a car he was trying to pass Saturday morning on Route 206 between Arrenton Road and Ewing Street.

The driver of the second car was Edward S. Chando Jr., 29, of Oxford. Maryellen Chando, 27, was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a mild concussion. Ptl. David Crumwell investigated.

STEREO TAPES TAKEN

From Parked Car. Six stereo tapes valued at $25 were stolen between 4:45 Friday afternoon and 9 the next morning from a car parked in the drive of the owner, Eileen Marder, 220 Wendover Drive.

Police added that in addition, several eggs were broken on the floor of the car and a mail box flag had been damaged. Later in the day, five of the tapes were found in a neighbor's mail box.

Traffic Light Planned for Valley Road - Harrison Intersection

An intersection which makes experienced drivers clutch and neophytes brake down altogether may soon come under control.

State highway engineers have just finished the design for traffic lights at that Valley Road-North Harrison crossing, and the next step will be a Township Committee ordinance.

The intersection has been the subject of detailed study under the Federal TOPICS traffic program, but this is taking so long that the Township decided to take a short-cut and settle for a temporary signal until the TOPICS design can be completed. This means the new light will simply be a $30,000 conventional signal without the elaborate turning lanes envisioned earlier.

Construction depends on availability of materials, but Township officials hope for very early installation. The intersection is a favorite site for fender-benders.

In another look to the future, Township Committee is inviting public discussion of the municipality's capital budget next Monday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall. The budget, unveiled in November, has been in the hands of the Planning Board for its comments, and the board is scheduled to give formal approval at its April meeting next Tuesday.

The budget includes such familiar provisions as expansion of the public library, flood studies of Van Horn brook, replacement of fire equipment, extension of Mountain Avenue from Bayard Lane to Route 206, rental of parts of the Valley Road building from the school board.

Copies of the budget are available in Township Hall for study before Monday's meeting.

Members of Township Committee and the Township engineering department -- to say nothing of citizens and drivers -- are concerned about faulty drainage on State Road.

From Leigh Avenue north to Ewing, and especially between Ewing and the Jefferson-Redhill area, drainage is not only bad, but hazardous because excess water freezes in the winter and is slippery under the tires.

Letters have been written to the state over a period of years, but without much success, points out Administrator Joseph R. Nini. He suspects that defeat of bond issues and consequent lack of money may be responsible for state inaction.

KINDERGARTEN TO STAY

As All-Day Session. Parents who went to Tuesday's school board meeting to ask retention of all-day kindergarten were told by board president Dietrich Meyerhofer that all is well, the board's decision not to cut staff from the budget means kindergarten won't be changed.

A related proposal by board member Gail Firestone would require principals to talk over decisions -- like the kindergarten one -- with parents. It was referred to the superintendent and the board's policy committee.

Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, in response to a board question, said a district need not have kindergarten at all, under state law.

Dr. Meyerhofer announced that next Tuesday's planning meeting will be open to the public for the first hour, then closed for personnel discussions.

Students, staff and some Middle School staff all helped develop the high school's curriculum, said PHS principal George Petrillo.

New courses include Developmental Reading I and II, supplemental courses in basics like reading, formal Advanced Placement work in English, college-level calculus, chemistry, physics, U.S. history II and, for the first time, art.

Special social studies and English courses have been scheduled for students whose native language is not English. Career education, Electronics and Communications are all new, Mr. Petrillo said.

Scheduling difficulties handicap some students, he conceded. "The brightest students know how to work the system to get the teachers they want, and all the rest get the left-overs," he told the board.

Mini-courses for jaded seniors who know they'll graduate anyway, will again be offered. Board members and some audience, frowned at "Astrology" but Frank Soda of the PHS staff, said it would be a literary-cultural course. Since background in astronomy and psychology is suggested, soothed board member Joan Doig, it's probably all right.

Board assignments were handed around by Dr. Meyerhofer. Dale Madden, new finance head, was charged by the president with getting the budget message to the town; Judith Getis, assigned Policy, was urged to get into the instructional area; Hannah Fox, handed Negotiations, was offered sympathy and a committee larger by one than the current team; Mrs. Getis, given Legislation, was asked to propose, as well as suggest support or opposition.

Community relations -- new -- was given to Mr. Pike, with Robin Wallack as member. Mrs. Wallack protested that ranking, indignantly informing the board that the idea for such a committee was hers, as well as Mr. Pike's.

"I am being punished for my opposition to the views of the board," she declared, and Dr. Meyerhofer replied, "Your remarks are inappropriate at this time, and I'm sorry you made them." But Mrs. Wallack persisted:

"I take exception to your remark," she retorted, "I resent being placed in the position of underdog, and I do not intend to be quiet."

DUNDAS POSTPONED

In Zoning Request. Dundas Corporation's request to convert a house at the rear of 357-59 Nassau to two-family use was postponed Thursday night until the Borough Zoning Board's April meeting at Dundas' request.

At Thursday's meeting, only four of the seven board members were present and one of those four has asked to be excused from consideration of Dundas' matters. This left only three, and Dundas preferred to postpone the case until more board members could be present.

In other matters, the board granted the First Baptist Church conditional use authorization to convert a single-family home at 30 Green Street to two-family use. Carl E. Foss, 72 Elm, received bulk variances for subdivision of his property into two lots. The board granted Mr. Foss only seven of the 15 feet in rear yard variance he had asked for. This means the 20-foot rear yard he had wanted must now be 28 feet.

The store at 195 Nassau that used to be a book store, can now be used to sell quilts. The board reversed the decision of its zoning officer that the use of the space couldn't be changed.

The Medical Center received the third and last extension of authorizations connected to additions on its "Merwick" unit and on the Center itself. The law allows only three such extensions. This one, and the permissions themselves, will expire this fall.

R. Peter Hodge received a six-month time extension for approvals related to his 32 Vandeventer property.

Shopping Center was fined $960-$60 each on 16 counts—for alleged short weight of salted peanuts.

The complainant was Harry S. Mordt Jr. of the State's Division of Weights and Measures.

In another special session of Township Court Monday, Judge Philip Carchman fined Michael Metz, 24, of Cranbury, $110 and revoked his license for six months. Mr. Metz had been charged with driving while impaired by alcohol.

Mr. Metz was also ordered to attend an alcoholic treatment program every Saturday morning for one year.

Elizabeth Luchak, 59 Maclean Circle, and William A. Kozachek, Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction, were each fined $15 for red light violations.

THEFT REPORT

TV Set, Tree are Stolen. Nineteen dollars were taken from a woman's purse and a $100 television set was stolen in larcenies last week reported by Township police.

Susan Olivier told police that she had left her home at 54 Rollingmead Thursday afternoon and when she returned 90 minutes later she discovered her purse, which she had left in a bedroom, in the bathroom. There was no sign of forced entry.

The television set was removed from the living room of the home of Maureen Rapp, 96 Leigh Avenue, between 11 Friday night and noon the next day. Again, no signs of forced entry, police said.

Unusual Theft. Borough Chief Michael Carnevale reported an "unusual theft" of a two-foot high Pendula Atlas Cedar tree from the front lawn of a Queenston Commons resident. Valued at $100, it was described by the owner as rare.

Ptl. Peter Handley investigated. He found a trail of dirt leading away from an 18-inch hole. The theft was reported Thursday morning.

In other thefts, someone slipped a lock to enter a room in Holder Hall on the University campus and take a $350 stereo receiver; a case of bourbon was stolen from a Wine & Game delivery truck, and a $200 camera, $120 AM-FM cassette receiver and a $100 pocket calculator were stolen from a room in the Princeton Inn College. Police report that entry was through an unlocked window.

PAIR ARE CHARGED

In Liquor Store Caper. Two young men have been charged with breaking and entering and attempted larceny following their arrest

Think Twice

"Let's dive into
The swimming pool!"
(I knew you'd guess —
It's April Fool!)

There's no fooling about the fact that for the first time in several years, we're enjoying an early Spring. Despite January's bitter cold, the winter months proved unusually mild on balance, with the mean temperature for March alone running well over 100 degrees above normal.

Rainfall scheduled to dominate the midweek picture was due to be replaced by generally fair and mild weather. April's first weekend should be enjoyable.

Saturday at the Cellar liquor store, 174 Nassau Street.

Presently free on $1500 bail each, they were identified as Thomas Forehand, 18, of Red Hill Road and Michael Flanagan, 19, of Sutton Place, West Windsor.

Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Kerry Klink responded to a 2:21 a.m. alarm that sounded in police headquarters. Ptl. Patterson observed two people at the rear of the store, one partially in a window that had been broken. A wooden panel over the window had been forced in, police said.

MAN IS ASSAULTED

Near Ivy Inn. A 23-year old Plainsboro man was assaulted early Friday morning by three men across from the Ivy Inn on Nassau Street.

He was taken to Princeton Medical Center where sutures where needed to close a laceration of his forehead. Police declined to reveal the name of the victim who, they added, was not very cooperative.

Ptl. Donald Crosby of the Plainsboro police department was the first to investigate the assault. He was later assisted by Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Kerry Klink. The assault took place about 1:30 a.m.

$2.85 MILLION GIVEN

To Princeton University. Princeton University has received a gift of $2.85 million from the estate of Henry Gross Dechant, a 1901 graduate. The bequest was given to establish an endowed fund for undergraduate and graduate student support.

Born in Catawissa, Pa. in 1876, Mr. Dechant grew up in Trenton, where his father was minister of the Reformed Church. After attending the Trenton Model School, he entered Princeton where he majored in mathematics and graduated cum laude. Mr. Dechant's widow, the former Mayte C. Baughman, died this past August.

During the course of a diversified business career, Mr. Dechant in 1912 became one of the organizers of the Monroe Calculating Company, which today is a part of Litton Industries' business systems and equipment division. Later, in 1922, he and several associates founded Health Products Corporation in Newark. Six years after his death, in 1931, Health Products became White Laboratories, Inc., presently a subsidiary of the Schering-Plough Corporation in Kenilworth.

In addition to the current bequest, Princeton also received a gift of $518,000 from the Dechant estate in 1965 with which it created a memorial fund for support of fellowships and scholarships.

SIX ARE ARRESTED

Two for Drug Possession. Two Princeton men, charged with marijuana possession, were among six arrested last week by Borough and Township police for various offenses.

Robert W. McPherson, 19, 76 Clay Street, and Garfield A. Brown, 18, 175 Birch Avenue, were arrested last week by off-duty patrolman Victor Fasanella on the playground at Community Park School. They were charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Taken into custody by Ptl. Robert Nielsen, the two were later released, pending their appearance in Township Court.

Roland Glover, 26, 14 Quarry Street, was released in 10 percent of $250 bail after he was arrested and charged with creating a disturbance while under the influence of intoxicating alcohol.

He was seized by Ptl. Howard Sweeney and Ptl. David Funk, who answered a call of neighbors complaining of Glover banging on a door at 34 Red Oak Road in Princeton Community Village at 4:20 in the morning.

Solicitor Stopped. Craig Williams, 18, of East Orange was arrested Thursday evening on Butler Avenue by Township police, who charged him with soliciting without a permit after his permit had been revoked. He was later released in $25 bail.

Police report that Williams was one of nine salesman selling magazines for a Michigan City, Indiana, firm that was allegedly using pressure and intimidation tactics in their sales approach. Chief Frederick Porter added that later the permits of all nine salesmen were revoked.

Scott C. Haldane, 19, 456 Ewing Street, was arrested last week after 11 p.m. by police in his stalled car and charged with driving while impaired by alcohol.

According to Chief Porter, a Township patrol car traveling behind Haldane's car, saw him knock down a portion of a wooden fence at the south entrance of the Princeton Shopping Center. Haldane denied the charge but Sgt. David Potts was able to show him a piece of the fence that had become embedded in the front end of his car.

He was later released to await his appearance in Township court.

William Blackburn, 49, 42 Mercer Street, was arrested last week after he allegedly directed loud and indecent language at passersby on Nassau Street. Chief Michael Carnevale commented that Blackburn had been free on bail from a previous charge with the stipulation that if he were arrested again, his bail would be revoked.

He was arraigned before Judge Philip Carchman who revoked his bail and set a new bail of $1,000. Blackburn was taken to Mercer County Jail in default of that bail until his scheduled court appearance April 7. He was later released, police said, when his bail was paid.

"Gang Preacher" to Speak

Dave Wilkerson, author of the "Cross and the Switchblade" and known as the "Gang Preacher" will speak in Jadwin Gymnasium on May 6 at 7:30. The public is invited.

In 1958 Mr. Wilkerson became famous in the New York area for interrupting the Michael Farmer murder trial in which seven young gang members were on trial for the murder of a polio victim, Michael Farmer. The ensuing publicity made the young minister from Pennsylvania a hero among New York's 350 teenage gangs. He is the founder of New York Teen Challenge, one of America's most successful drug addiction rehabilitation programs.

An ecumenical group of pastors and laymen from the Princeton area is sponsoring Mr. Wilkerson's appearance. Those interested in supporting this effort are asked to make their checks payable to The David Wilkerson Youth Campaign and to send them to The Dean of the Chapel, Princeton University.

WINDOWS DAMAGED

At State Road Firms. Expensive plate-glass windows of three State Road firms were damaged last week by vandals.

Ptl. Robert Nielsen making a routine check Thursday evening noticed a window in a front door at Taylor Rental, 775 State Road, had been shattered. It had been broken, police said, by a metal, arrow-shaped object. An 8-by-5-foot window adjacent to the door had been pierced three times with BB pellets.

A further check revealed that windows at Nemeth Motors, 830 State Road, and Gardner Princeton Company next door, had also been pierced by pellets.

Earlier in the week, a grocery cart was pushed through a 5-by-15-foot window of Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center. It was discovered at 2 a.m. by Ptl. David Cromwell.

Police added there was no apparent entry.

Man Charged with 41 Thefts

On Friday, Borough Detective Ronald Holliday went to Mercer County Jail to serve Edward Vernon Jr., 23, 413 Alexander Street, with 44 warrants charging him with breaking and entering and larceny. The entries took place throughout 1975.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that 30 of the thefts that Vernon has been charged with took place on the Princeton University campus and included dormitories, the Firestone Library and Prospect Avenue clubs.

Vernon's other alleged entries occurred at the YMCA, Princeton Theological Seminary, Nassau Inn, Lambert House (the nurses' quarters at Princeton Medical Center) and in private homes.

Vernon is being held in jail in $14,500 bail set by Judge Philip Carchman.

Tentative plans call for a parade, and various ways to acknowledge the contribution of Princeton's volunteers. Borough Council member Martin P. Lombardo is coordinator.

HIROSHIMA FILM HERE

Next Thursday, Dr. Robert J. Lifton, who recently testified for the defense of Patricia Hearst, will introduce and discuss the film, "To Die, to Live - The Survivors of Hiroshima," at its first U.S. showing on Thursday, April 8, at 8 in 120 Frick Hall on the Princeton campus (east of the corner of Washington Road and William Street). Admission is free.

The 1975 film, written and directed by Robert Vas, is an hour long and based on Dr. Lifton's 1968 book "Death in Life," the winner of a National Book Award. "To Die, to Live" depicts the tortured lives of those who were physically harmed by the atom bomb the U.S. dropped on Hiroshima on August 6, 1945. It spans the last 30 years with authentic film clips taken shortly after the bombing and with scenes of modern Japan and interviews with the survivors. There is a minimum of narrative comment.

The film, originally made for the BBC, has been shown to British and Canadian television audiences, receiving unusually high praise from critics. Mary Craig of the London Catholic Herald wrote, "It was a tour de force, a truly great film. One was left with the conviction that nothing, nothing, nothing could ever justify man's use of the atomic weapon against his fellow-man."

Dr. Lifton, who is professor of Psychiatry at Yale University, has long been concerned that numbness will prevent people from thinking clearly about the nuclear issue. After the showing of "To Die, to Live" on April 8, he will relate the film to the current debate over the use of nuclear power plants.

PLANNERS AT WORK
Battlefield Plans Approved. Housing policies for Princeton, as developed by the housing sub-committee of the Planning Board, will be unveiled for the board itself late in April, housing chairman Golda Gottlieb announced Monday night at a Planning Board work session. The proposal will then go to the governing bodies in advance of public hearings, perhaps late in May, Mrs. Gottlieb said.

In other business in advance of next Tuesday's regular public meeting, the Planning Board heard reports on the Battlefield Society's plans for Battlefield Park and will pass next Tuesday a resolution approving those plans. They were prepared by Zion and Breen, landscape architects.

The plans show the driveway from Mercer Road up to the Clarke House moved toward Princeton, clearly separating it from the drive of a private house on Mercer. The new drive curves up from Mercer and loops to enclose a parking field behind the homes that front on Mercer Road. Evergreens will screen parking from houses.

A "period" garden will be planted on the ruins of the old barn, and a path constructed to link the old trolley road with the Institute Woods. Throughout, there will be selective tree cutting and clearing of underbrush to provide clear views of the battlefield.

Across Mercer Road, where columns stand near soldiers' graves, there will be a bike path, near to and paralleling Mercer, from Parkside to the edge of the park nearest town. At this point, two rows of apple trees 20 feet apart, will be planted, straddling Mercer Road, to suggest the old orchard.

SEWER COSTS
Could Hinge on Hopewell. "There must be some financial protection for us if Hopewell Township changes its mind and decides it wants a sewer," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley at his press conference Tuesday, making his weekly comment of dismay on the regional sewerage situation.

The present recommendation for a three-plant sewer system instead of a single plant system, has been influenced by Hopewell Township's announced decision that it doesn't want sewers, but prefers to remain a septic-tank community. Mayor Cawley said he fears that, if Hopewell "changes signals" and decides it wants sewers, the other towns in the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority will be stuck with the three-plant system which may be inadequate under those new circumstances.

"Who makes up the capital costs of that mistake?" Mayor Cawley asked. He added that the state is not sure whether even the high-quality plants proposed for the three-plant system, will meet today's high standards. With a one-plant system, the mayor said, there is no question that standards won't be met.

The mayor said he plans to outline in detail for the state's Environmental Commissioner David Bardin, the high cost of present sewer plans to Princeton, urging state aid.

PROS AND CONS ARGUED

In Program on Nuclear Power. A forum on the Pros and Cons of Nuclear Power will be held Friday, April 9, at 8 at the Woodrow Wilson School auditorium.

Sponsored by Citizens and Students for Responsible Power Policies, the Social Concerns Committee of the Unitarian Church, the Social Order Committee of the Friends Meeting and the University Chapel, the forum will be addressed by Dr. John Wheeler, professor of physics at Princeton, and Dr. John Edsall, emeritus professor of biochemistry at Harvard. Dr. Wheeler will argue for the continued expansion of nuclear power use, and Dr. Edsall will advocate a moratorium on further construction of nuclear power plants.

Citizens for Responsible Power Policies is calling for an immediate moratorium on further building of nuclear power plants in New Jersey. The Friends Committee on National Legislation, a Quaker-sponsored lobbying group in Washington, D.C., has urged a moratorium on all new construction licenses for nuclear power plants and a halt to the development of fast breeder reactors and plutonium recycling, pending further study of the technical, political and moral issues.

AD REJECTED

By Alumni Weekly. Princeton University's "Princeton Alumni Weekly" has refused to accept an advertisement from the Concerned Alumni of Princeton, a group highly critical of the University. The paid ad was designed to tell Princeton alumni -- and presumably alumnae as well, although CAP does not approve the admission of women to the University -- how to get on the mailing list for "Prospect," the CAP magazine.

The Princeton Alumni Weekly is published by the Princeton University Press. The Press' director, Herbert Bailey, wrote to CAP December 24 detailing the Weekly's advertising policies, and informing T. Harding Jones, executive director of CAP, that "Prospect's" ad would not conform.

"We do not permit editorializing under the guise of advertising for goods and services," Mr. Bailey wrote. He told Mr. Jones he didn't think CAP could advertise its magazine without editorializing in a way that would be unacceptable to the Weekly.

Quoting the Weekly's "published advertising policy, as established by the Trustees of the Press," Mr. Bailey pointed out that the Weekly will not accept political advertising or the expression of opinion as advertising. (The Weekly does not accept ads from Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby).

Mr. Bailey said that, where the Weekly's purpose is to review the doings of the University's community without partiality, "Prospect" "almost boasts of its blatant bias".

"It seems to me," Mr. Bailey continued in his letter, "that CAP is not actually 'concerned' about the HEART OF JOHN WITHERSPOON SCHOOL: The walls of the Middle School atrium, now the color of hot-dog mustard, will be transformed this spring by a permanent mural to be designed and executed by Princeton architect Michael Graves. Using the walls of the atrium and adjoining corridors, and making use of changing natural light from the skylights, Mr. Graves would like to create the illusion of a garden or arbor. "Not replicate an arbor," he explains, "but allude to the essence of a garden, setting up enough of the real so you have the sense of looking THROUGH University except to damage it."

"If Mr. Bailey thinks our advertisement would constitute editorializing," Mr. Jones said in a statement this week, "I wonder how he describes the pages purchased by the University administration and intended only to trumpet the Administration's success."

Mr. Bailey's letter is published in full in the current -- March -- issue of "Prospect". CAP claims a circulation of 30,000 for "Prospect." Mr. Jones charges that CAP has tried since 1972 to obtain a complete mailing list of alumni, and was denied the list by the University. The University printed a new directory in 1974, Mr. Jones said, and "Prospect" uses that list.

Four area residents, Mrs. Peggy Mate and Ms. Sandra Cattani, of Lawrenceville, Mrs. Patricia Bonacci of Titusville and Mrs. Sandra Smith of Belle Mead have joined the Women's Committee of the Daniel & Budd Kessler Foundation, a non-profit organization which, since its inception in 1969, has directed its energies within the private sector to generate support of Rutgers Medical School and its contributions to medical education and research.

The Foundation, through its newly-formed Women's Committee, is sponsoring a public seminar on "The Modern Woman and Her Family's Health," to be held at the Daniel I. Kessler Teaching Laboratories, Piscataway campus, on April 12, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Topics to be discussed during the morning and afternoon sessions include: "Cancer In Women," "Cosmetic Surgery," "Nutrition & Diet," "Husbands and Heart Disease," "Menopause & Estrogens," "Concepts in Fertility Control," and "Raising Children in a Single Parent Home."

A $10 registration fee, which includes lunch and is tax deductible may be made payable to The Daniel & Budd Kessler Foundation and mailed in care of the Foundation to 113 Howe Lane, North Brunswick. Additional information may be obtained by calling Ms. Denise Blajian at (201) 247-1200.

John Witherspoon's PTO — Nancy di Meglio, president — is financing the project but Mr. Graves is donating his time and talent. He plans to paint the hard parts himself, but students, parents and teachers are eager to help where they can, and 200 kids have already signed up. The atrium is about 26 by 100 feet and about 20 feet high. The drawing is by Mr. Graves.

TAMARACK FARMS
Everything For Your Garden. Coming from the heart of Manhattan did not hinder Joan and Scott Parry from turning a run-down farm into a going concern once again. In a short three years several rusty quonset huts have been replaced by two barns and a greenhouse, and Tamarack Farms has become an active nursery.

Things started rather slowly, at first. Purchased second hand, the greenhouse lay on the front lawn "like a huge jigsaw puzzle" for months last winter waiting for a man to come and assemble it. Finally Scott gave up and did the job himself. His prior experience in renovating several old brownstones in New York helped. As Joan comments, "Farming may be new to us, but working with our hands is not."

Unfortunately, the greenhouse did not go into full operation until mid-May last year, just a little late for the main bedding plant business. However, this spring Joan has started many seedlings and bought others.

In 12-paks ready to be popped into your garden (and the soil is definitely ready) are the early vegetables — lettuce (including buttercrunch, oakleaf, green curled endive and two others) broccoli, kale, turnips, cabbage and cauliflower. Each pak is $1.20 or ten or them for $10.

After the last frost, and the experts generally say early oriented toward backpackers May to be sure, Tamarack to one for all outdoor ac-peppers (sweet and hot) eggplant, cucumber, cantaloupe and watermelon. Then when you begin to think about your flower garden, naturally this is the tennial theme. There are petunias in all three colors to whether you prefer the jacket by Atlantis with double grandiflora, double or cascade zipper protection, to the types; Spirit of '76 verbenas, fascinating Cagoule, a hooded early asters and bachelor tent-like poncho that can be buttons; red salvia, begonias, dropped to its full-length geraniums or impatiens; protection simply by undoing white alyssum, shasta daisy, a few snaps — just what is begonias or impatiens again; needed on a wet football and blue ageratum, salvia and lobelia.

There are other colors too, particularly in the the marigolds and zinnias, and again the prices are $1.20 for a 12-pak. You'll also find herbs, hanging baskets — some flowering in Bicentennial colors and others filled with green foliage, — and a bargain bench of house plants priced at 75 cents for a four-inch pot.

Tamarack Farms, which also sells fresh eggs, is quite remarkable for its growth when you consider that it is a side business. Scott Parry, a Princeton University graduate, is really a management consultant.

Located in Princeton Junction on Bear Brook Road (to the right off Alexander Road, just before the PRR bridge,) Tamarack Farms is open Monday through Saturday from 10 until 6.

WOODEN NICKEL GROWS
All Outdoor Activities Stressed. Now, after two years in Princeton, Stan Gdowski feels that his Wooden Nickel has grown from a store oriented toward backpackers to one for all outdoor activities. And by outdoor activities he means everything from walking the dog to mountain climbing.

This is particularly true in the clothing lines which are extremely functional. For instance, there is rainwear to nylon shells from rainwear to a tough yellow foul-weather jacket by Atlantis with double zipper protection, to the types; Spirit of '76 verbenas, fascinating Cagoule, a hooded early asters and bachelor tent-like poncho that can be buttons; red salvia, begonias, dropped to its full-length geraniums or impatiens; protection simply by undoing white alyssum, shasta daisy, a few snaps — just what is begonias or impatiens again; needed on a wet football and blue ageratum, salvia and lobelia.

We also saw chamois shirts which are practical (and handsome), even if you do nothing more than walk in the woods. These come in regular or western styles, including one with a nylon yoke for greater durability, if you do carry a backpack. The colors include camel, red or green; the prices range from $14.95 to $27.50.

Regardless of the equipment you're interested in, whether it be light-weight fishing tackle or bike touring shorts with a chamois patch on the back, Wooden Nickel's staff tries to sort out your needs and suggest the right item. They will steer you away from a more expensive sleeping bag that will keep you warm at zero degrees, if you only plan to camp during the summer months.

The sales people here are knowledgeable about the stock partially because of their interest in the outdoor life, but also because Stan insists on a training program. He says, "We know what we're selling. This is not a department store. After fitting hundreds of boots, we can tell when they're right."

And the stock is such that this type of knowledge is essential. There are comfortable country walker shoes with a rubber sole from France, a Wallabee-type boot with a replaceable vibram sole, leather street boots, hiking boots and others that are part rubber and leather, plus many more for both men and women.

Free Seminars. This is a low-key store that is interested in more than just selling, and in keeping with this concept The Wooden Nickel offers many free seminars. Topics include edible wild foods, kayaking, bike touring, knots and safety in climbing, outdoor cooking and so on.

A typical seminar includes a lecture, movie or slide show on Friday evening, with a field trip the next day. The next one is April 21 and will feature Lou Whittaker with a slide show of the American K-2 climbing expedition. For a full list, ask to be on the mailing list, and reservations are advised as many seminars quickly become over-subscribed.

Stan feels this is the most important thing he does. He says, "We are not just selling. We want to introduce people to new things, to teach them how to use the equipment and to respect it."

Throughout the store quality is stressed, and we learned that most everything is unconditionally guaranteed. An example of this quality is the polyester spandex hiking shorts by Sportif which Stan highly recommends for its ease of movement and durability — he has owned some for about five years and knows that they will last. They cost $18 and come in khaki, blue or navy.

This spring you'll find some new things here such as the German Birkenstock sandals. Made of a tight cork that is gradually molded to your foot as you wear it, it is as com-

Proud of Princeton.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Last January I wrote to the local papers expressing concern for the death of Princeton's greatest performer, Paul Robeson. Since that time, many objectives which I had hoped would honor Robeson, such as the renaming of Green St. to "Robeson" Street, have materialized through the efforts of many civic-minded Princetonians, one of whom is Clarence DiDonato of whom I have the pleasure of knowing. I would like to thank many of our elected officials for their part too.
Because of my school work and related activities, I regret to say that I was unable to participate in the Robeson commemoration as much as I had hoped to. Nevertheless, I am proud of my community for taking action in honoring one of Princeton's greatest humanitarians, Paul Robeson.
KENNETH REID

Robeson Article Attacked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I was somewhat startled to note in this week's issue a full-page ad, apparently sponsored by some well-intentioned citizens, official and otherwise, proposing to celebrate the late Paul Robeson and name a street after him.
Admittedly Mr. Robeson suffered some foul indignities throughout the years and admittedly he stuck to his guns. Unfortunately, he pointed one of his guns the wrong way. For years he both voluntarily lived under and sanctioned a regime that must qualify as one of the most tyrannous in history - at latest count responsible for the murder of some twenty or thirty million people in its work camps and still going strong.
As far as I know, Mr. Robeson never repudiated his allegiance to the "ideals" of the Soviet Union, ideals which have created a white slavery more vicious than any black slavery I ever heard of. Despite all the indignities, and with his great gifts, Mr. Robeson did enjoy a great career in this country, many careers in fact, a privilege and a right that has not been granted to many of his Russian counterparts.
If any one doubts this I can supply names of dozens of poets, playwrights, novelists, film directors, dancers, actors, not to speak of athletes and scientists, who have either disappeared, been silenced, or, in some few cases, exiled, and that goes from Trotsky and Maxim Gorky right down to the present. And Mr. Robeson knew about them, all of them.

The ad claims Mr. Robeson was misunderstood. How? I suspect the only "freedom" that concerned him was his own.
There were and are millions of black people who suffered as deep humiliations as Mr. Robeson who did not and do not opt for this kind of "freedom".
I fail to see, especially in this bicentennial year, how misplaced guilt and misguided sentiment can do anything but confuse matters.
GEORGE SCHLOSS
541 Lake Drive

An Insulted Teacher Replies.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I feel obligated, in behalf of my fellow teachers as well as myself, to protest the uninformed and irresponsible attacks which have been printed in this column on the teachers of the Princeton School System.
I very much resent being called greedy and lazy. I am an honors graduate of the University of California who could certainly be making a great deal more money in medicine, law or real estate.

I am teaching elementary school because that is what I choose to do, and what I believe provides me with the best opportunity, given my particular talents, to contribute something of value to our society. Many other teachers share or exceed my educational level, abilities, and values. Many of these same teachers, I might add, cannot afford to live in the town in which they work.
Furthermore, I resent the insulting generalizations made deprecating the conduct of students, teachers and maintenance staffs in the school system. I question how much time the writers of these letters spend within the physical confines of the schools developing the knowledge prerequisite to formulating accurate statements about them.
Third, I have yet to see a teacher encourage a student to be rude or irresponsible. I question the writers' assumption that the schools hold the primary responsibility for the nurture of the values and manners of their charges.
I can only hope that the people who are writing these letters are not serious, and that they are only hoping to stir up some lively conversation on the cocktail party circuit.

It's New to Us

fortable as walking on sand and can be resoled, $27 to $30.
Particularly interesting is Jansport's newest backpack with shoulder straps that neatly tuck away so it can be laid flat and unzipped like a suitcase. This was developed to accommodate the increasing number of people who combine hiking with air or train travel. Not only can you carry it on your back, but also, without any loose pieces, it fits neatly into most travel compartments, $60 for the larger size.
"Most Useful Garments." Also of interest are the new sewing kits for 60-40 jackets ("the most useful garment in the store," according to Stan,) down vests and comforters, all of which save you approximately 50 percent of the finished cost.
Then there are custom knives, hand engraved and guaranteed for life; a baby carrier by Gerry that snaps open into a stand so it can also sit on the ground; and lots of accessories such as padded hip belts, ditty bags, freeze-dried food, and a waterproof canoe bag in which to store provisions.

In the months ahead Stan plans to expand the library corner, adding a wider variety of books to cover subjects such as hang gliding, trail guides and how-to-build books, in addition to the large selection already there.
Then, as a new innovation, plans for a rental program are in the works and everything will be included -- tents, packs, stoves, kayaks, foam pads and so on -- and the price will be reasonable, in keeping with Wooden Nickel's desire to introduce you to new areas.
Located at 354 Nassau Street, The Wooden Nickel is open Monday through Friday from 10 until 9 and Saturdays from 9 to 6.

LANGROCK LOSES SUIT But Keeps Standards

Langrock-Princeton, a men's clothing store at 42 Nassau Street which prides itself on its 80-year history of selling high quality merchandise, was ordered last week to pay nearly $42,000 to a Massachusetts suit manufacturer whose goods Langrock claimed were defective by Princeton standards. Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch made the ruling in a suit for $64,415 in damages filed by Greico Bros. of Lawrence, Mass., for goods it said it sold Langrock in 1973.

Langrock returned 318 or all but one set of the 372 suits to Greico as unsatisfactory. According to owner Alan Frank, Greico eventually resold the suits, which would normally retail at $210, at $40 apiece for a re-sale of $100 in a Boston store. Among the defects that reportedly failed to meet the Langrock standard were button holes that were the wrong size, plaids that failed to match well enough and improper spacing between buttons.

A retired clothing expert for Brooks Brothers in New York testified for Greico that many of the allegedly defective suits were not unacceptable by Brooks' standards. This testimony had a strong influence on Judge Schoch's ruling.

"We have a high regard for the quality of our merchandise and a continuing interest to make certain our customers get the quality they pay for," said Mr. Frank in commenting on the ruling.

INVENTION PATENTED

By Lahiere's Bartender, Tom Batterton, 25 Pine Street, bartender at Lahiere's French restaurant, has invented a simple and inexpensive method of cleaning draft-beer coils using his cleaning composition in a small, hand-held aerosol can. A patent-pending application has been issued for the invention by the U.S. Patent Office.

Noting that draft beer tastes better when drawn from clean coils and that most establishments have to hire outside firms to do the job, Mr. Batterton maintains that his new cleaning composition will do the job easily and inexpensively. One canful will sanitize about 90 feet of coil.

A manufacturing and marketing source is now being sought for the new product.

Festivities Will Mark Opening Thursday Of New Quaker Bridge Mall on Route 1

The new Quaker Bridge performance by "Miss New Jersey," Nancy Craig, with Governor Brendan T. Byrne heading the dignitaries participating in the opening ceremonies.

Located on Route 1 at Quaker Bridge Road in Lawrence Township, it is New Jersey's newest shopping center. Fully enclosed and air conditioned, it features some of the nation's largest retailers, including Bamberger's and Hahne's, as well as more than 60 other stores and services. The Mall will eventually include more than 135 stores on two levels including J.C. Penney and Sears.

As "doors open" to the public at 10 a.m. and ribbon cutting ceremonies get under way, numerous public officials headed by Governor Byrne will be on hand to participate. Magician, author and lecturer Milbourne Christopher will perform a mystifying illusion which will officially mark the Mall's opening. He will be assisted during his Quaker Bridge Mall performance by "Miss New Jersey," Nancy Craig. Following the opening day ceremonies, children of all ages will enjoy the fun and fantasy of a spectacular Spring and Easter display in the Mall's central court. A kaleidoscope of animated animals depict the story of the "Ugly Duckling," with hidden speakers providing sound accompaniment and music.

Farm animals of all types and descriptions also abound in the flower-filled surroundings. Highlighting the display will be a life-size electronic shooting gallery and youthful sharpshooters who hit the bulls-eye will be entertained by the electronically-controlled antics that follow.

Before departing, children will meet the Easter Bunny and receive an appropriate free gift. A photographer will also be on hand to record the occasion. Quaker Bridge Mall's Enchanted Spring Fantasyland will be featured from opening day through Saturday, April 17.

which is expected to be simple to fabricate from readily available elements. Since there are more than 200,000 licensed drinking places in the U.S. in which some 18 million barrels of draft beer are consumed, the market potential seems excellent. Distribution will be through restaurant and bar suppliers.

A LOOK AT THE PAST

Last week we noted two of the early taverns in Princeton, but almost every village, in fact settlement, had at least one inn. Lawrenceville, also on the main road between New York and Philadelphia, had 5 before 1800 - Baker's Tavern, Phillips' Tavern, Brown's Tavern, White House, and Compton's Tavern. Pennington had 3 - Bollen's Tavern, Bullman's Tavern, and Hunt's Tavern, and Hopewell had The Horse and Groom Tavern and The Hopewell Tavern. Further north in Hunterdon were 3 inns in New Germantown (better known today as the village of Oldwick), 2 in New Hampton, 3 in Clinton, 2 in White House, and probably a dozen or so more scattered about. The town of Flemington grew up around (Samuel) Fleming's Tavern.

An inevitable site for taverns was ferry landings, with an inn on each side of the river. Most famous of the landings was McKonkey's Ferry where Washington and his army made their crossing on December 25, 1776. In Trenton was Yardley's Ferry Tavern, Coryell's Ferry Tavern, in Lambertville, was perhaps the most notable of the era, being located on the Old York Road between Philadelphia and New York. A short distance north was Howell's Ferry Tavern in what is now Stockton. North again was Warford's Tavern at Lower Black Eddy or Byram. There were several taverns at Frenchtown to serve the travelers of that ferry crossing.

The names of the ferry crossings changed frequently, according to who was the owner or proprietor, in addition to which side of the river one happened to be on. But, regardless of the name, the traveler knew a friendly inn would be awaiting his patronage wherever he went.

The doctor of medicine who specializes in the treatment of eye defects, the correction of improper vision, diseases of the eye and their treatment, and eye surgery, is called an ophthalmologist. The old name for this physician was oculist. The optometrist, on the other hand, corrects defects of focus by means of glasses and eye exercises. He is trained in the use of mechanical instruments for the measurement of vision. Since he is not a medical doctor, he refers cases of eye injury or suspected disease to an ophthalmologist.

Princetonian, Appointed General Director of Spoleto Festival, Plans to Keep His Roots Here in Work at All Saints Church

It might seem unlikely that a young man in his twenties who has been tapped by a world famous composer to be general director of an internationally-known festival in Europe would also be content to continue as organist and choir director of a small town church.
Yet David Agler, 27, director of music at All Saints' Church on Van Dyke Road, has been asked by Gian Carlo Menotti to head the American participation in the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds, a major cultural event which takes place each summer in Spoleto, Italy. An although he commutes from his home on William Street to the offices of the Spoleto Festival Foundation in New York City, he directs a "gem" of a semi-professional choir here and is "happy to come home and play the hymns in church."

This summer marks the 19th Spoleto Festival which was founded by the Italian-born Menotti in 1958 as a joint Italian-American event to showcase American artistic efforts. In the intervening years, it has become international in scope and attempts to embrace all the arts: opera, ballet, symphonic and choral concerts, chamber music, prose plays in any language, folk dance and folk art as well as multi-media presentations. Between June 23 and July, some 125 performances will take place involving 500 to 600 artists.
"We grow our own productions," says Mr. Agler, pointing out that a Festival is more often a booking house rather than a repertory situation in which performing groups from as far as South Africa are invited to work up a specific production for the Festival. This summer the offerings will include a Tchaikovsky opera "Pique Dame"; the Stuttgart Ballet; the English Chamber Orchestra under Pinkas Zuckerman; a folk dance ensemble called Ambakaila from Trinidad; the Mumenschanz Mime Company from Switzerland; a drama by Diderot; choral concerts by the Westminster Choir, the Bel Canto Chorus of Milwaukee and an Italian choral group. In honor of the American Bicentennial there will be a Marathon Gershwin concert on July 4.
To his new post as head of the American involvement in all this activity, Mr. Agler brings not only considerable musical ability but also a clear-headed business sense. Not only is he a talented pianist who once considered a career as an accompanist, but he understands the intricacies of budget preparation and "gets a kick out of the administrative putting together of the pieces." Deeply religious, he knows church music to its origins and yet is willing to tackle the most avant garde operatic score.

FESTIVAL DIRECTOR: David Agler, who doubles as director of music at All Saints' Church, is the general director of Gian Carlo Menotti's Spoleto Festival, responsible for the U.S. participation, fund raising and the musical details as well as conducting two of the opera offerings at the Festival in Italy.

Born and raised in the midwest, he seems very much at ease in the international artists' circles in which he has been thrust. He is Menotti's most recent protegee but he is unfazed by his meteoric rise. Success doesn't really matter to him, he says.
Training as a Choirboy. Mr. Agler's roots are in the Episcopal church and in church music. His father played the clarinet and the saxophone, but he grew up in a boys' choir and credits his first training to a "fantastic" choir director from whom he learned sight reading and what good music was. "Every Midwest school has a band," he relates, "when I came East I noticed that the level of bands and — of football — declined."
He graduated from Westminster Choir College with a double major in organ and piano, and although he had been "unruly" in his five undergraduate years, seeking the removal of the Choir College president and demonstrating against the Cambodian incursion, Westminster promptly offered him a post teaching conducting. He also taught at the Academy of Vocal Arts, a little-known well-endowed institution in Philadelphia, and was assistant to James Litton, organist and choir master at Trinity Church.

As an undergraduate he led the Symphonic Choir in performances with such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic and the Boston Symphony, which he calls a "heady experience" for a 22-year old. However, it was when Dr. Lee H. Bristol asked him to conduct a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience" at the John Witherspoon School that he discovered he had a love of the theatre.
In 1972, the Westminster Choir was invited to perform at the Spoleto Festival, and Mr. Agler went along as the rehearsal pianist and manager. In the next two summers he took on more managerial tasks in addition to greater musical responsibilities, such as preparing the artists for a performance

"Winter's Tale" Is Interesting, Rewarding--But Disappointing

IN McCARTER CAST: Maria Tucci and David Haskell have leading roles in "The Winter's Tale," at McCarter through Sunday. (Cliff Moore Photo)

Even those who consider "The Winter's Tale" one of Shakespeare's better plays concede that it is a difficult one to bring off. But whether one views this final production of the McCarter Theatre Company's current season as an attempt to meet the challenge of a masterpiece, or to breathe life into a still-born play, it is interesting and rewarding and disappointing. It should, of course, be seen. How often in a lifetime is one exposed to "The Winter's Tale"? And obviously there have to be great moments in an evening that brings together Shakespeare as author, Michael Kahn as director, a large cast of good actors, an interesting setting and some charming costumes, dancing, and music.

Leontes of Sicilia urging his boyhood friend and guest, King Polixenes of Bohemia, to prolong his visit. Polixenes says no. Leontes tells his attractive, pregnant wife Hermione to urge him. She does. Polixenes says well, all right. Whereupon Leontes goes into a jealous fit, decides Hermione has been cuckolding him for years, and that his beloved small son Mamillius was actually sired by Polixenes as was the child Hermione now carries.

To go back a bit: Kahn's version opens with the two handsome young kings engaged in a kind of ritual wrestling match, stripped to the waist and wearing white tight-fitting robes with beribboned codpieces. Had we tried on the spot to work out the implications of that action we would have missed the next two scenes. On reflection we wonder if Kahn meant to suggest that Leontes' jealousy is complicated by a homosexual passion for Polixenes. That might help to explain his mad undermotivated explosiveness, but it does little to solve the play's real problem which is that Leontes — certainly as presented in this production — is a boring person for all his tearing a passion to tatters and regardless of his sexual and affectional preferences.

Threat Foiled. In any case, Leontes orders his trusted Lord Camillo to poison Polixenes, but instead Camillo engineers that king's escape to Bohemia. Interpreting flight as admission of guilt, Leontes waxes more furious, publicly denounces Hermione Invitation Accepted. The tale begins with young King

But the great moments are, we thought, like entertainment in the aisle, and moving words from the pilot, of an airplane that never quite gets off the ground. One is pleasantly impressed, sometimes amused, even touched; but there is that nagging feeling of not really going anywhere; of being diverted but not transported. And three hours is a lot of diversion.

Even among those who find the evening disappointing there will be much disagreement as to how to divide the blame between production and play.

as an adulteress, throws her into prison.

There she has her girl baby, Perdita. Leontes banishes the baby, she is abandoned in - where else? -- Bohemia, to be discovered by a shepherd. Sixteen years pass, Perdita is now a lovely girl, the image of her young mother; and the son of Polixenes -- who else? -- falls in love with her.

And so the story turns from regal tragedy to rural comedy.
Many of these set-piece scenes are delightful in themselves but not productive of much momentum because the author's hand is so visible throughout.
Life never really takes over.
By the time he wrote "The Winter's Tale" Shakespeare had created all of his great works except "The Tempest" and may well have thought he could be excused from proving once again that he knew how to write a play, and could get right to the passion, the poetry, and the highjinks.

But passion in an uninteresting character tends to be itself uninteresting; and much of the poetry spoken here, while it sounds like the real thing, lacks the wit and wisdom and subtlety of vintage Shakespeare, has a warmed-over quality. And there is a prodigious lot of exposition in this over-plotted piece.

Missing Elements. Perhaps when Leontes is perfectly cast and directed, and the tone of the production is just right, the play's disparate elements can be fused and one can be hypnotized into not noticing its defects or omissions. Philip Kerr as directed by Kahn does not do whatever it is that needs to be done with Leontes.
As an actor he has our sympathy,
but not as a character.

John Conklin's ice-cold setting of white carpet and plastic tubing is spectacular but no help in warming us to Leontes; nor are Jane Greenwood's handsome all-white costumes in the early scenes. What she does for the bucolic sheep-shearing festival in old Bohemia with its bumpkins and busty maidens is spirited and amusing, as are Lee Hoiby's music and Elizabeth Keen's dance direction.

Except for Leontes we thought all of the roles were well cast and played, and we liked particularly: Maria Tucci as the wronged queen and later as her daughter turned 16, two very theatrical but not interestingly complex roles; Be e Henritze as the refreshingly abrasive Paulina who takes the prison-born babe to Leontes in an effort to soften his heart to match his head; Richard Dix as the beaming comic shepherd-to-end-all-comic-shepherds who finds the abandoned babe; Richard Backus as his engagingly clownish son, Clown;
Josef Sommer as reliable old Camillo; Powers Boothe as Time and as Chorus; Ian Trigger as a prancing, song-singing rustic rogue; David Haskell as Polixenes' son who loves Perdita; and young John Christian Browning who, as the boy Prince of Sicilia, is so clear-voiced and clear-headed we began to wonder ourselves if he could be Leontes' son.

If play and production have problems, they somehow have the virtue of bringing us closer to the author. There are far worse ways to spend an evening than in watching a somewhat relaxed and absent-minded Shakespeare touch all of those tragic and comic bases even if he has neglected to hit the ball very hard first.

CHINA PROGRAMSUNDAY

On Performing Arts. A program on the performing arts in China today will be given Sunday from 2-5 in the University Art Museum's McCormick Hall, sponsored by the US-China People's Friendship Association in cooperation with the Dean's office of Princeton University.

Lois W. Snow, an American actress and the widow of former China scholar Edgar Snow, will speak on the performing arts in China. "Bright Red Star," the feature film hit in the People's Republic of China last year, will also be shown.

Mrs. Snow's career includes acting in many Broadway plays and television dramas, as well as being a founding member of the Actors Studio.
She married Edgar Snow in 1949 and traveled to China with him in 1970. Her last visit to China was in 1975. She speaks extensively throughout the U.S. on various phases of Chinese society.

TROUBLES....

In Northern Ireland. A Catholic schoolgirl living in an average Belfast home is trying to separate herself from the violence around her, but a 15-year-old IRA member on the run comes into her home seeking help. Official and Provisional branches of the IRA fight it out in the girl's living-room, British soldiers constantly intrude and somehow the people of Northern Ireland continue.

It's the story of "We're On the One Road," a new play by Princeton student Philomena Muinzer, a native of Ulster. It will open this Thursday and will play Friday and Saturday and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday under Theatre
Intime's auspices at Murray Theatre.

Animators, computer filmmakers, eroticists and the abstractionists will all be represented during the evening.

PILOBOLUS

Back. The "high-energy circus" known as the Pilobolus Dance Theatre will play McCarter for the third time in three years when its members go on stage Tuesday, April 20, at 8 p.m.

Described as a combination of ballet, gymnastics, modern dance and sculpture -- and a high-energy circus -- Pilobolus began when four Dartmouth undergraduates who had been modern dance students of Alison Chase, decided to form -- Pilobolus. The company later expanded to include Ms. Chase, Martha Clarke and a full-time technician. One of the original dancers left to become a computer scientist and has been replaced by Michael Tracy. Remaining founders are Moses Pendleton, Jonathan Wolken and Robby Barnett.

AUDITION....

For New Play. Try-outs for the 20 parts in a new play, "Queen Jane," will be held this Sunday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and Monday from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at Princeton Inn College, Alexander Street. Auditions are open to all.

"Queen Jane" will be produced in the College's theatre, opening Thursday, May 6, as part of Princeton University's Spring Arts Festival. Daniel F. Berkowitz will direct.

The play was written by William Lord and Marvin Harold Cheiten, both of whom were graduate students at Princeton not long ago. The playwrights decided to write about Lady Jane Grey, queen of England for nine days after the death of King Edward VI in 1553. They've speculated on what could have happened if Jane had been modern in her approach to government.

"WHITE DAWN"

In Canadian Arctic. A documentary-adventure film shot in the Canadian Arctic, "The White Dawn" is based on a novel about three New England whaling men who become separated from their ship. Their lives are saved by a small tribe of Eskimos, and the film records the impact of the three strangers on the tribe and the confrontation of two civilizations.

"The White Dawn," said to be the first film made in the Canadian Arctic since the days of Robert Flaherty 40 years ago, will be screened at McCarter next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Elegant Music-Making of Brandenburg Ensemble A Highlight of University Concert Series So Far

The Brandenburg Ensemble sparkles and gleams through its elegant music-making. Their all-Bach program, presented at McCarter Theatre on Monday evening, March 29, was one of the highlights of the Princeton University Concert Series heard so far this year.

Alexander Schneider, the conductor and violinist, has rehearsed his excellent musicians carefully. Their playing was finely contoured, the dynamic levels were clearly profiled, and there was a sense of mutual awareness among all the musicians which allowed the group to coalesce. The sound became that of a single, rich orchestral instrument.

The two works most distinguished by tasteful performance, and smoothness of interaction among all involved were the pieces which framed the program: the "Concerto in C Minor for Oboe and Violin, S. 1060" and the "Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major, S. 1047."

Oboist Vrbsky and violinist Schneider soared through their parts. Schneider, here as elsewhere, tends to underplay his role, but his careful articulation and timing fit well the style of the music.

The second movement of this work, with its pizzicato, yet full-sounding string accompaniment, gave Vrbsky room to shape his winding, lyrical melodies. The third movement, most animated of all, showed off the whole ensemble, with their dazzling ability to phrase as a unit, and to project a unified design.

were Gerard Schwarz on trumpet, Alexander Schneider on violin, Renee Seibert on flute and Rudolph Vrbsky on oboe.

The trumpet part, which lies in the stratosphere even of this baroque instrument, was handled with ease by Schwarz. He also managed a smoothness of tone extremely rare on this more usually strident instrument. The other players also performed their parts well.

The two other concerti, the "Concerto in D minor for Two Violins, S. 1043" and the "Concerto in D minor for Violin and Orchestra, S. 1052," both were somewhat overdone, especially as regards tempi. There were spots in the former where the players positively pounced on their chords.

Perhaps the virtuosic and exciting playing of violinist Jaime Laredo affected the group. His playing, though more than able, was a bit violent for this music.

This ensemble is a first-rate group of musicians and one can only hope to hear more of them.

EHRLING TO CONDUCT
N.J. Symphony Here. The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will return to McCarter Theatre on Sunday afternoon, April 11, at 3 for the final concert in its 1975-1976 Princeton series. Under the baton of the Swedish conductor Sixten Ehrling, the orchestra will offer Beethoven's Symphony No. 8; the Bacchus and Ariane Suite by Albert Roussel; and the Fifth Symphony of Dmitri Shostakovich.

Following his 20 year association with the Royal Opera in Stockholm, Mr. Ehrling made his American conducting debut in 1961 with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and continued as its music director for ten seasons.

Because the Princeton NJSO series is sold out, subscribers who are unable to attend the Sunday afternoon concert are urged either to give their tickets to a friend or return them to the Symphony as a tax-deductible gift. This may be done by contacting the NJSO, 213 Washington Street, Newark, telephone (201) 624-8203. Tickets returned will go on sale at McCarter one hour before the concert.

News of the Theatres

The Theatre has been partially supported by the New Jersey Council on the Arts and the Princeton Recreation Department in the past, but is a victim of this year's budget cuts by both groups.

The group, made up of professional directors and volunteer actors, actresses and stagehands, has begun its sixth rehearsal season under the direction of Francia White and Debbie Bellow. Ms. White holds a drama degree from the University of Washington and Ms. Bellow, who has directed the last three years' performances, is a theatre major at Rider College.

Each summer, the theatre takes its production to audiences in this area on its portable stage, a converted house trailer. "All we need is two electric outlets and an audience," says Ms. Bellow. "A stage helps, but we can perform anywhere and for any age. Without some financing this year, we are sunk. Naturally we'd be happy to accept cash contributions, too."

Bookings are available from April 10 through the month of May and may be made by calling Ms. Bellow at 921-8826.

FANTASTICKS DUE

At Lawrenceville Theatre. The New York Theatre Company production of the longest running musical in American theatre history, "The Fantasticks," on The Lawrenceville School's Kirby Arts Center stage at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, April 6, is open to the public at no charge.

"The Fantasticks," still running in its 15th year in New York, is a harlequinade written by two men from Texas, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, based on an old French romance - Edmond Rostand's first play, "Les Romaniques" written in 1894. Rostand's greatest success was "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Les Romaniques" was a buried prologue to his later career until Jones and Schmidt used it as the plot for "The Fantasticks."

The New York Theatre Company, now in its 2nd touring season, combines young theatre professionals from all over the country with original, American musical adaptations.

GOODMAN AND WAITS

In Pop Schedule. Folk-singer-songwriters Steve Goodman and Tom Waits have been added to McCarter's spring pop schedule. They'll play the theatre Friday, April 16, at 8.

Goodman is well known in the pop world as author of "City of New Orleans" - although he himself came from Chicago - the song made famous by Arlo Guthrie. He is guitarist and singer, as well as composer.

Waits is a singer-songwriter whose "old 55" was made famous by The Eagles and Bonnie Raitt.

This reading is not a performance, and there are no auditions to sing in the chorus. Any musically interested person with modest sight-reading ability is invited to participate or attend. There is a small charge for non-members, to cover music and refreshments.

For further information call Mrs. Michael Ramus at 924-4266.

PIANO CONCERT SET

For Sunday, April 9. Keith Fisher, pianist, will give a concert in Woolworth Center, on Friday, April 9, at 8:30, sponsored by the Friends of Music. The concert is free and open to the public.

A 1975 graduate of Princeton, Mr. Fisher was a music major and studied composition at Princeton. He gave a number of recitals here while an undergraduate and performed some of his own works.

He began studying piano at 7 and later studied with Rosetta Goodkind and Regina Rubinoff at the Juilliard School. Mr. Fisher is also an avid chess player and is currently a finalist in the 24th U.S. Correspondence Chess Championship.

For his program, Mr. Fisher will perform, Ravel: Ondine, from Gaspard de la Nuit; Bach: Prelude and Fugue in C sharp Minor; Brahms: Variations on an Original Theme, Op. 21; Scarlatti: Two Sonatas, in B Minor and E Major; Scriabin: Sonata No. 9, Op. 68; and Schumann: Concerto without Orchestra (Grand Sonata in F Minor, Op. 14).

GUARNERI, OPUS 2

With Mozart Quintets. The Guarneri Quartet will come back to McCarter for the second and last of its concerts devoted to the complete string quintets of Mozart.

The concert has been scheduled for Monday, April 12, at 8 p.m. Assisted by guest artist Jaime Laredo, violist, the Guarneri will play the Mozart Quintets K. 174 and K. 515.

A FAMILY AFFAIR

In Loft Gallery Exhibit. For the month of April the Pezzutti family of Rumson will exhibit their work at the Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 306 Alexander Street. Each member has a distinctive style.

Santo Pezzutti's recent oil paintings use the famous Jackson Pollack "drip method," in which black enamel is worked on white canvas. Though the method is abstract, he achieves recognizable subject matter. The oil paintings of his wife, Gertrude D. Pezzutti, are classically rendered and the still-life is her favorite.

Carol, the oldest daughter works in pastel and does commissioned portrait work. Another daughter, Diane, works in water color and does ceramics. Lynn Pezzutti-McDermott paints stylized drawings of animals, while Paul, the youngest, who has been accepted at the Syracuse University School of Architecture, will exhibit contour studies of people.

An opening reception will be held Saturday between 2 and 5. On Saturday, April 10, Carol Pezzutti will do portraits by appointment in pastel or charcoal. For further information call the Loft Gallery Tuesday through Saturday between 9 and 5 at 924-8056.

of Alban Berg's opera "Lulu" and conducting Menotti's "Tamu Tamu." Last summer he was named administrative director, U.S.A. with responsibility for managing the orchestra, the show-piece of each Festival.

Varied Responsibilities. His new title includes a general responsibility for the American organization and liaison with the American board of directors (there is also an Italian counterpart). He is also charged with fund raising and in May will take a trip to solicit from American business in Europe. He oversees the musical details of the Festival and, with Christopher Keene, the 29-year old music director, will shortly audition 1200 young musicians in music schools and conservatories in New York, Chicago and San Francisco to select 116 orchestra members for the Spoleto orchestra.

As associate musical director he will conduct seven performances of Donizetti's 1827 farce, "Theatrical Inconvenience," as well as the world premiere of "Paolino" by Alberto-Bruni Tedeschi, a modern work employing two orchestras, one jazz and one regular, an actor and two mimes, but no singers.

Another facet of his job is maintaining the personal relationship with Gian Carlo Menotti, who at 65 retains the title of president of the Festival. He is a frequent visitor at Menotti's castle in Scotland and this week accompanied the composer to Charleston, S.C., which Menotti has chosen as the site of the Spoleto Festival U.S.A. in May, 1977. Mr. Agler considers Menotti "one of the phenomenas of the musical-theatrical world" and is honored to have been asked to assist him in getting his musical scores in order.

Unlike the post of assistant conductor at the New York City Opera, which he was offered earlier this year, the job with the Spoleto Festival involves no evening rehearsals or performances and the major event takes place in the summer when the All Saints' Church choir takes a vacation. Which is why he is able to span achieve, as Robeson did, two seemingly disparate worlds. Of his job as choir-master and organist he says, "My most satisfying personal work is right here at All Saints." That would please the choir members, who consider it a privilege to sing under his direction, as well as the church members who don't want to lose him

NOMINATIONS SOUGHT

For Robeson Youth Awards. Plans were made known this week to extend the Paul Robeson memorial events of early April by awarding four Paul Robeson memorial awards to Princeton youth. Dr. Benjamin Wright, secretary of the Paul Robeson Memorial, has issued a call for nominations of young persons "who carry on in their lives the spirit of Paul Robeson in advancing to new frontiers in the performing arts, athletics, scholarship and concern for social justice."

In addition to Dr. Wright, a committee composed of Howard Waxwood, longtime principal of the Witherspoon School; Dean Douglas J. Brown, who was a classmate of Robeson's at Somerville High School; The Rev. Leon Gipson, pastor of the Mount Pisgah A.M.E. Church, and Donald C. Stuart, editor of TOWN TOPICS, will review the nominations and make the selections. One of the awards may be announced as early as Friday, April 9, the 78th anniversary of Robeson's birth and "Paul Robeson Day in Princeton," with celebrations planned by the Youth Center.

Dr. Wright feels that there must be in the town which produced Paul Robeson a number of young persons of talent and promise approaching genius in the four areas in which Robeson excelled. Saying that "a memorial is nothing if it dies," Dr. Wright added that it was "worth going one additional step to recognize young persons in the same mold Paul Robeson was in."

The young person named in each of the categories -- performing arts, athletics, scholarship and social concerns -- need not necessarily be black or white, male or female, Dr. Wright said, although overcoming some ethnic handicap to achieve, as Robeson did, would weigh favorably. Dr. Wright hopes that by scanning the Princeton scene, the committee will be able to identify individuals of integrity, conviction and purpose, willing to put their careers and talents "on the line" as Robeson did.

Dr. Wright expects that each award will be accompanied by $100. Some money has already been put up by individuals for this purpose, and he plans to sell 200 copies of Robeson's autobiography, "Here I Stand," which are being provided at a discount by a former Princeton resident who now works for The Beacon Press in Boston, for additional funds for a Paul Robeson Memorial Fund.

PUPPET SHOWS COMING To Presbyterian Church. The Forest Friends Puppets will give four shows on Saturday, April 3, in the assembly room of the Nassau Presbyterian Church. The shows, which are sponsored by the Presbyterian Cooperative Nursery School, will be presented at 10, 11, 1 and 2. Tickets at $1 per person may be reserved by calling 452-9070, 924-4779 or 443-4860.

The Nursery School is now taking registrations for the 1976-77 school term. Classes are offered for 2, 3 and 4 year

WHEN THE TROLLEY RAN

And Saved a Life. Mrs. Alice Blackwell Lewis recalled recently at a meeting in the Pennington Women's Center that it was once possible to ride the trolley from Trenton to Pennington. She remembers because the trolley saved her life.

When she was only 3, she was critically ill with diptheria, and a Dr. Oliphant came from Trenton by trolley to attend her all night by kerosene lamp and keep her throat open so she would not choke. The trip took an hour.

Mrs. Lewis has 11 brothers and sisters, all but one of whom still live nearby.
Because her mother was always busy with the children, father did the grocery shopping. A woman came in to make the clothes and laundry was sent to town.

Several times each year the family journeyed to Trenton to buy shoes, household supplies, linens and underwear at Dunham's. A dinner in Trenton of roast lamb, vegetables, potatoes, homemade bread, coffee and pie cost 25 cents.

Mrs. Inez Howell recalled that her father decided Pennington would be a good place to raise his children but his wife refused to live in the country. His house was built on Main Street (now the Professional Building) and the farm was behind it.

Mr. Howell's car - an EMF - was the third automobile in Pennington. It was used on occasion to transport the fire equipment to a country fire.
Two other cars in town were owned by Dr. Hart and Dr.
Radcliff.

Most residents rode horses which were tied to hitching posts in town, some of which still exist. The old pump organ at the Methodist Church stopped one morning because all the young pumpers had run outside to catch a horse that had broken loose.

Mrs. Howell, whose husband was a Congressman in the 81st Congress, told about a party in Washington that she remembered - a baby shower for the wife of a young Congressman named Gerald Ford.

Mrs. Howell displayed a drawing of the Welling House on Curlis Avenue, the original section of which was built before 1728; several sections were added on later. Mrs.
Lewis said that the earlier part of her house at 111 North Main Street was built before the Revolutionary War.
Beams had the bark left on, indicating it was erected before 1750. Another part was added on about 1800.

The Women's Center, located in the Corner House of the Presbyterian Church,
Main Street and East
Delaware Avenue, is open every Thursday from 9 to 3, for coffee, conversation and special programs. Visitors are welcome.

SPORTS

In Princeton

OPENER MONDAY
For PHS Tennis Team. Winning seasons in tennis arrive as regularly at Princeton High School as the swallows in Capistrano. Indeed, about the only thing that will be different this year when the Little Tigers open their schedule Monday in Trenton against the THS Tornadoes will be a new coach. For the first time in 15 years, Bill Humes will not return, having taken the year off to serve in an administrative capacity in the Princeton School system.

Taking over for Humes is Joe Diefenbach, no stranger to the youth or tennis players of Princeton. Diefenbach teaches physical education and coaches basketball and lacrosse in the Middle School and has been associated with the Princeton Community Tennis Program — one of the chief reasons for Princeton's pre-eminence in the sport — for the past 12 years. He is presently assistant director of the program.

"I'm looking forward to it," says Diefenbach. "It's exciting working with this age group." He added that he already knows most of his players, having worked with them during the summer in previous years. "We have a lot to live up to," he said.

The Little Tigers were 14-2 last year, winning the Mercer County championship for the umpteenth time and the Central Jersey combined Group 1 and 2 title. They were eliminated in the state southern finals of the combined Group 1 and 2 playoffs.

Diefenbach reported that he was greeted with a very good turnout of 39 candidates, 12 of whom are freshmen.

Returning as probably the number one singles player is senior Dan Aronovic. Steve Ebersole, another senior, will be number two and Andre Eicheberger, a junior, number three. Other veterans returning include Dave Bowen, Hugo Walter and Dan Amarel, the latter an early question mark because of an arm injury.

Two promising candidates who Diefenbach predicts will HELP FROM ABROAD: Louis Snijders, a junior at PHS and a native of South Africa, is expected to help the Little Tigers maintain their dominance in Mercer County tennis.

see a lot of action this year are sophomore Allen Aronovic and junior Louis Snijders, who played jayvee last spring. A native of South Africa, Snijders has been in this country 15 months.

PHS will open its season at home next Wednesday against rival Princeton Day School, one of the teams on the 19-game schedule expected to provide the Little Tigers with their stiffest competition.

23 AND 0?
Goal of PHS Girls in Tennis. "Of course we're going to win the state title. Where else can we go but up."

A rash statement? Not at all, in the eyes of Carol Wimberg, who guided the Princeton High School girls tennis team to a 22-1 record last year, her second as head coach. The girls' only loss was to Ramapo in the state finals.

The Little Tigers were eliminated in the semis in the state tournament in Wimberg's first year and last year in the finals at Jadwin Gym. Simple arithmetic, she claims, indicates PHS will go all the way this spring.

Although two players from last year did not return — Patty Rose left the team and Michele Benjamin moved to California — Wimberg has enough talent returning to back up her optimism.

The top three singles players are Karen Clark, Vera Jesser and Lora Jaffin. Jaffin and Clark are sophomores, Jesser a junior. Ellie Rose and Leslie Krause, two juniors, are four and five, and sophomores Vicki Phillips, Laurie Blum and Jane Arrington, six, seven and eight. Two more sophomores challenging to break into the regular lineup are Jenny Southgate and Nancy Ackerman.

Newcomers to the squad are Claudia LaPlaca, a junior; sophomores Sandy Meyerhofer, Leigh Versfeld and Ann Hackenberg and freshmen Michelle Roemer, Sylvia Townsend and Cindy Woolston.

The girls will open their season at home Monday against Trenton (3:45) and then break for the holidays before resuming April 20 at Lawrence High. There are 16 games on the schedule.

BOONIN TO START
In PHS Nine Opener. Princeton High baseball coach Jim O'Neill will start his only experienced pitcher, senior Mike Boonin, in the Little Tigers' home opener Thursday afternoon against East Brunswick. Game time is 3:30. PHS was scheduled to open last year with East Brunswick but the game was rained out and the two were never able to get together on a makeup date. O'Neill reported that East Brunswick had a good jayvee team last year and he predicts a tough game. "That's the way I want to start off," he said.

O'Neill added that he might go again with Boonin in Princeton's second start Tuesday in a 3:45 contest with visiting Lawrence High.

In the starting infield will be sophomore Al Kandall at first, Dave Robinson at second, Scott Thompson at short and sophomore Keith Phox at third. Phox hasn't played the position much — he won four games as a freshman pitcher — but O'Neill reported he keeps the ball in front of him and "he is accepting it as a challenge." Two starters from last year, Dave Seagers and Paul Soderman, will be behind the plate and in centerfield respectively. John Boccanfuso

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you by John Bernard

One of the most incredible baseball records of all-time was set by Shoeless Joe Jackson who had season batting averages of .387, .408, .395, .373, .354 and .382 — AND NEVER WON A BATTING TITLE! ... Jackson compiled those averages in the American League starting in 1910, but every season when he had such high averages, some one else had a better one ... It seems unbelievable that a player who hit that well should not have won at least one batting championship — but Joe Jackson never did!

Here's a basketball oddity ... Indiana University had the number one ranked team in the country in 1953 and also won the NCAA basketball tournament that year — yet not one player on that team made the first team All-America ... They completely dominated college basketball without any first team All-America players!

One of the most unusual golf rounds ever shot was the one by pro Dave White a few years ago ... On the 8th hole, he had an incredible score for a pro — a 13 — but then he shot the amazing total of 10 straight birdies on the next 10 holes and finished with a respectable 72!

I bet you didn't know that you might save money on your homeowner's and/or car insurance if you had a higher deductible than you now have.

will be in left. In right, O'Neill plans to use Boonin when he isn't the pitcher. When he is, Jim Lennon or Alex Robertson will get the nod.

Designated Hitter. In a new rule, high school teams are allowed a designated hitter and O'Neill has nominated senior Jim LaPlaca for that role. "It will give me a chance to take advantage of an older player's bat," he said. He added that he was pleased with the hitting of LaPlaca and Lennon following a pre-season game last week with Steinert.

O'Neill added that he was very pleased with the Steinert practice, saying that he had been concerned earlier about the problem of having to mix under and upper classmen. "We looked pretty good together as a team. We spent a long time looking for an infield combination and now that we have it, I think it's a good one."

PHS is a member of a seven-team Mercer County league this spring that includes Hamilton, Ewing, St. Anthony's, Notre Dame, Trenton and Steinert.

Weiss Honored

Irwin Weiss, who coached Princeton High School basketball and track teams to state championships, has been honored by the New Jersey Interscholastic Coaches Association for 45 years of distinguished service to athletics.

Following a career at PHS that lasted a quarter-century, he was on the coaching staff at Lawrenceville for a year before serving as a coach of the Princeton University track team. The men he trained there set 14 of 16 existing records in field events.

Twenty-three and four last year, Hamilton is again the team to beat. O'Neill agrees Hamilton is "toughest on paper" but he sees Ewing as an equally serious threat. The Blue Devils have 11 lettermen back from a team that was 15-8 — more than enough material for Andy Greener, one of the premier coaches in the area, to fashion a contender.

As for PHS, which has only four starters returning, it is largely inexperienced. "If we keep eliminating errors we're going to do all right but you have to be realistic," O'Neill said. "Some of our guys are going to be nervous when they get into pressure situations for the first time."

PHS VS. PINGRY

In Lacrosse Opener. The Princeton High School lacrosse team will open its season Thursday afternoon at Pingry and then play its home opener Saturday at 2 on the PHS football field against a strong Montclair team.

In the previous two years, PHS won its opening game against a good Fair Lawn team, and Coach Bill Cirullo hopes to make it three in a row, but there has been a change. Fair Lawn has been dropped and Pingry, the new opener, and PHS are as evenly matched as two teams can be.

Last year Pingry won in double overtime; two years ago in sudden death. It's Princeton's turn but Cirullo sees it this way: "The team that's emotionally and mentally prepared and makes the least mistakes is usually the one that comes out of it on opening day."

Possibly, PHS left most of its mistakes behind Thursday in a scrimmage with Abington High School in which the visitors from Pennsylvania steamrollered the Little Tigers, 16-3.

"A Disappointing Day" "It was a combination of their being quite good and our not being up, but it was a disappointing day," said Cirullo. He added that Abington had "one of the best attacks I've seen."

PHS is set at goal with Bob Willis and on defense with Craig Rendall, Nate Harris and Craig Strazza. The attack is fluid. The only two certainties are Morgan Mohrman, last year's second-leading scorer, and Jamie Leshner. Pierre Muri may have been lost for the season at attack with a green-stick fracture of the collar bone following a body check by the 220-pound Rendall in a practice last week.

Cirullo will choose his mid-field lines from Steve Mapes, Stu Brown, Bill Cobb, Chris Cahill, Johnny Morris and Bob Campbell.

The Abington scrimmage was a good, sobering experience — "at least I hope they learned from it," said Cirullo. He feels now the Little Tigers are ready to play.

RELAYS SATURDAY

For PHS Track Team. Princeton High School's track team, coached by Marc Anderson, swings into action Saturday when it will participate in the annual Mercer County Relays to be held at Rider College. Field events will begin at 1:30.

The Little Tigers will open their dual meet season on Monday when they play host to St. Anthony's. On Wednesday, both the boys' and girls' track teams will entertain North Brunswick. Both meets start at 3:45.

MIX AND MATCH

For Junior Tennis Players. A Junior Tennis Jamm is planned Sunday, April 4 from 9 to 12 in Jadwin Gym.

As a climax to the winter indoor tennis season, the juniors in the advanced training program and the members of the men's and women's varsity tennis team of Princeton University will participate in a mixed doubles tournament. Each junior player will have a varsity team member as a partner.

In charge of selecting the players for the University team is coach David Benjamin. Jeff Oakes and John Gudzinowicz of the Princeton Community Tennis Program will supervise the junior players.

HOME OPENER SATURDAY

For Tigers in Lacrosse. Another of the top lacrosse teams in the nation will open Princeton's season Saturday at 2 when the Tigers face Johns Hopkins on Finney Field, east of Palmer Stadium. The game between the two colleges a year ago went to the Bluejays, 22 to 3.

At College Park last weekend, Maryland, the NCAA champion, conquered the Orange and Black, 13 to 3, breaking away from a close contest by holding the losers scoreless in the final half.

From a slim 3-2 margin in the early going, the Terrapins moved out to a 7-3 advantage at the intermission, and then took total charge by scoring the last six goals. Dave Tickner, Pete George and Charlie Jones tallied for Princeton. The loss left the Orange and Black with a 1-2 mark.

Announcement has been made that Michael J. Hanna will succeed Art Robinson as Princeton's lacrosse coach when the latter's resignation at the end of the season takes effect. Robinson said some months ago that the 1976 campaign will be his last and that he will henceforth devote full time to his work as Associate Director of Athletics for Business Affairs.

An assistant coach at the U.S. Naval Academy for the past four years, Hanna is a 1968 graduate of Hobart, where he earned three letters each in football and lacrosse and was an All-American in the latter sport. Following Army service, including a year in Vietnam, he was on the lacrosse coaching staff at Johns Hopkins for a year until he went to the Naval Academy.
